

BUSINESS PERSONAL PROPERTY RENDITIONS are due April 15th

The Texas Property Tax Code requires that all business owners file a business personal property rendition annually. A rendition is a legally required form that provides Dallas Central Appraisal District with the description, location, cost and acquisition dates for business personal property that you own. DCAD uses the information to help estimate the market value of your property for taxation purposes.

The last day to file your annual rendition is April 15. If you mail your rendition, it must be postmarked by the U.S. Postal Service on or before April 15. If you hand deliver it or use a private delivery service such as Federal Express, it must be physically received in our office before close of business on April 15. If you fail to file your rendition before the deadline or you do not file it at all, a penalty equal to 10% of the amount of taxes ultimately imposed on the property will be levied against your business.
